Lovely Professional University, Phagwara, Punjab, Mar 16, 2018 —

“Esports for Everyone” is a community building convention to promote Esports in India. We aim to reach out to people from diverse cultures and professional domains and work at the grass root level to build regional Esports communities. Esports isn’t just about playing video games or a mere “past time” it’s a booming industry with versatile professional career paths for those interested in pursuing their passion for Esports.

While the number of events that focus on the Professional circuit are on the rise, we wanted to instigate an Esports convention that works as an incubator for newer teams and eventually turn them into professional teams by providing more competitive opportunities at the regional level.

India has the largest youth population in the world. Young people are the innovators, creators, builders and leaders of the future. Majority of our audience and participants are from Universities, however to encourage high competition we keep our events open for all.

Lovely Professional University is the Gurukul of over 50 thousands students who come from different parts of the world. They are mostly tech -savvy and hyper active on social media and can help us organically spread a word about Esports as we lay the foundation stone for “Esports for Everyone” with greater support from Dragcon, a students organization registered under the aegis of division of student welfare, Lovely Professional University to achieve our ultimate goal of making India the next power house of Esports.

- A chance to speak up about the future of Esports in India by participating in the Open Esports Forum called “Esports Dialogue” where ideas, concerns, problems and solutions would be debated in the most intellectual way.

We have invited Jesse Hol “Stamination” from Netherlands to host the E4E, Punjab convention. Jesse is a well known CS:GO caster in the Indian Esports community and there are endless opportunities to learn from him about the rise and sustenance of the European Esports Industry and how India can also develop its greater ecosystem.

It is vital to layout a stronger foundation for Esports in order to implement the strategic growth model while not ignoring the underlying challenges and critical pain areas. We invite the industry veterans, visionaries and community
